ALL SAINTS FARRINGDON

INTRODUCTION

The church itself dates from the 12th century, but is thought to be sited on an earlier site of worship. Parish records date back to 1558 – these vary in condition and style, some being written in Latin and some years missing altogether. Burial records often only had a name and date of burial (sometimes only the year), no age or address. Prior to 1752 there can sometimes be confusion due to the use of the old Julian calendar – the new (and current) Gregorian calendar provided for Wednesday, 2nd September 1752 to be followed Thursday 14th September, effectively losing 11 days. New Year's day moved from 25th March to 1st January.

Baptisms in the early parish records only recorded the father's name. Often parents named their children after themselves, and if a child died they used the name again, this can be confusing trying to work out who is who (see Jethro Beale page 53 as an example).

I have entered over 2,500 burial records for Farringdon from 1558, but there are only a few hundred headstones or markers. The majority of graves were not marked (or if a wooden cross, it has perished) and most were not plotted on a map to show the location. Very few clergy marked where people were buried. So most burial plots are unknown.

The first part of this book begins near the Lych gate and shows the known plots by row. If associated family are known to be buried at Farringdon but plot NOT known they are placed with a known relative in a dashed box.

The second part of this book (page 127 onwards) is the burial of people who we don't not where exactly they are buried. I have again linked families and some surnames may not be order.

Please bear in mind that the spelling of surnames can vary, this could be a variation in the spelling e.g., (Filder/Feilder/Filder), a miss hearing (e.g. Fidler/Vidler) or the vicar (or churchwarden) was not very good at spelling etc., Goodwife (usually abbreviated Goody, was a polite form of address for women, formerly used how Mrs., Miss and Ms. are used today. Its male counterpart is Goodman. There are several people known by this name in this book.

I have researched this book to the best of my ability, if there are any errors I apologise. Please let me know and I will correct.

That the whole of his family were born and bred in the same cottage and educated in the same school by the same teacher, is somewhat unique... The funeral cortege started from the cottage at 2.45, the brown cob saddled and bridled, the deceased's faithful companion and friend in so many journeys and for so many years, followed next to her friend and master in this, his last sad journey; then came the six sons and two daughters....' MASSEY Helen Katherine (Nee LANDMANN) born 8th September 1832 baptised 25th July 1835 at St Martin in the Field died 19th June 1910 aged 75 years (BR300 LARGE HEADSTONE/CURBED AREA) Helen was the youngest daughter of LIEUTENANT COLONEL George Thomas LANDMANN; army officer, military engineer and author (1779-1854, son of Helene and Isaac LANDMANN, a professor of artillery and fortification who wrote several books on the subject). Her siblings included: George Isaac William (1805-32 died aged 27 at Burnley Barracks) and Charles George (1824-77 died in Victoria, Australia, married Emma (2nd daughter of G. BRACHER esq., of Stamford Hill) 1844). There is some confusion about her mother – Helen's baptismal record (1835 when she was nearly 3 years old) states mother: Harriet TETSAL. This could be Harriet Elizabeth LANDMANN (eldest daughter of LIEUTENANT-GENERAL DICKINSON, ROYAL ARTILLERY) who died in Brighton on 23rd June 1844. Her father (WIDOWER) then married Harriet Tetsal HAYWARD (1797-1851) in August 1844. Katherine's father (who spoke Spanish fluently) wrote a 2-volume autobiography of his adventures working as a military engineer, and 'Historical, Military, and Picturesque Observations on Portugal' (This 1818 1st edition is described as "the most beautiful, illustrated English book on Portugal of the period" and was on 'Abe Books' 10 Most Expensive Sales of All Time - £35,850). He served in Canada and fought in the Peninsular Wars and his book details sieges/battles. George retired from the Royal Engineers in 1824 and became involved in the early days of railway - The London and Greenwich – Britain's 1st passenger service) (DM) Helen Katherine LANDMANN married Thomas Hacket MASSEY on the 26th April 1865 at St Nicholas, Brighton. They had no children. "Mrs Massey passed away after a very short illness. She was well known and loved for her kind sympathy and ready help in all sickness and troubles. Besides superintending the Sunday school, at which she attended most regularly, she filled the duties of organist of the church, and was a great help to the Rector in all parochial matters." (AG/H)

MASSEY Thomas Hacket REVEREND RECTOR OF FARRINGDON FOR 62

YEARS 1857-1919 of Farringdon Rectory born 3rd April and baptised 17th August 1830 at Newark, Nottinghamshire died 5th April 1919 (BR350 LARGE HEADSTONE/CURBED AREA) Thomas was the younger son of Ann MARSDEN (died 6th January 1841 at Castle-Gate, Newark after a protracted illness) and Thomas Hacket MASSEY (1785-1864) a gentleman, who married in 1812 at Pentrich Derbyshire. He appears to have had one sibling, an elder brother, Robert Marsden (1812-93, married WIDOW Mary MASON 1868 when he was 56). His father (1845) was a Director of the Great Leeds and London, Dudley

Madley and Iron Bridge, Hull and Lincoln, Nottingham and Birmingham, and Lincolnshire and Eastern Counties Junction Railway. (His wife's father was also involved in the Railways which may explain the connection). His father died at 56 Gloucester Crescent, Hyde Park – current value around £4.2 million). He attended Rugby, then Corpus Christi, Cambridge as a sizar (received financial help from the college and may have had certain menial duties). He was ordained Deacon in 1853 and Priest 1854 (Theological Associate of King's College, London, CURATE of St. Mark's Church Marylebone), (Diocese of London), CURATE of St Mark's, Marylebone Road (1853-57), before coming to All Saints as RECTOR in 1857. He soon showed a penchant for building, rebuilt the Chancel of All Saints Church and erected a Gothic rectory (Now 'Farringdon Place'). Not content with that he turned his attention to Stone House, which had been a private school until 1844. He bought the property, which is thought to have burned down, and began to build. Employing just one bricklayer, one labourer, and one carpenter, the RECTOR spent the next 30 years creating Massey's Folly from red brick and terracotta tiles manufactured at Rowlands Castle brickworks. It is surprising that the building was completed at all as he made a daily inspection of the construction and, if the design or execution was not to his liking the offending brickwork would be knocked down and would have to be rebuilt, sometimes more than once. The building was never finished during Massey's lifetime and lay boarded up for years after his death in 1919. He is described as eccentric: he disliked Methodists, and if a house with a Methodist connection came up for sale, Massey bought it and then boarded it up (even though housing was needed), 'Harding's is the chief example. He often used to preach behind a screen so that his dwindling congregation could not see him. He also used to hold a large book up in front of his face as he walked from the chancel to the pulpit. He would never allow himself to be photographed, but was tolerated by his fellow villagers, most of whom regarded him as a relatively harmless nut case". On his death in 1919 he was found neglected in squalid surroundings. His probate estate was worth around £22,000 – he left several bequests to his Folly Workers and also Battersea Dog/Cats Home, Alton RSPCA and the National Anti-Vivisection Society. (FB)

Shortly before the outbreak of hostilities, "Captain (Retired) KENNEDY, almost 60 was surprised/pleased to receive a letter from the Admiralty inviting him to assume command of the SS Rawalpindi, a 17,000-ton former P&O cruise liner which was in the process of being converted into an armed merchant-cruiser. Captain Kennedy (the father of Sir Ludovic Kennedy) was one of the "old-school" naval officers who believed fervently in a code of honour that placed duty above life itself. The Merchant-Cruisers were never intended to engage in combat with enemy warships, but only to intercept and search any vessels attempting to bring contraband goods into German ports. Rawalpindi was the 1st vessel involved in a naval clash between surface warships during the war. Signalled by the German warships to heave to and abandon ship, Captain Kennedy chose instead to turn and engage the enemy warships. Long before the gallant Rawalpindi could get within range to use her elderly 6" guns, German shells, from the powerful 11" guns of the Scharnhorst, reduced her to a smashed/ burning wreck. Within 40 minutes the vessel sank beneath the waves taking with her 265 brave men including her gallant Captain". (ALAN CHANTER). MacLEOD Neil born 14th February 1914 died September 1997 aged 83 years. Neil was the only son of CAPTAIN George Charles Sholto MACLEOD and Sybil Constance JEFFREYS. His father died when he was only 15 months old. Neil lived in Farringdon for most of his life. He was a Fellow with the Royal Geographical Society. He was treasurer for the Alton Natural History Society (1954-60), Chairman (1963-68), then Secretary (7 years), then came back again as Chairman in 1987. Apart from attaining the largest period of membership, he served a remarkable 22 years as an Officer of the Society illustrating his tenacity and devotion to the study of natural history. During his period as Secretary he wrote appreciative and comprehensive reports of field meetings that had been led by members and experts, and established a high standard of recording; a task that was subsequently shared by others. These reports were published in the local newspapers and constitute a valuable record of the Society over many years. Although a life-long resident of Farringdon, Neil spent several long trips at sea on whaling vessels and latterly worked on marine animals at the Institute of Oceanography at Wormley. He had a large sturdy bicycle that he used to ride part of the way to work. From time to time one would come across his bike parked behind a hedge from where he had set off to enjoy the wildlife of the countryside. Neil was an extremely hardy and independent person being quite happy cycling the district in all kinds of weather and observing natural history on his own. His quiet and persuasive manner and interests in all aspects of natural history brought together many naturalists, and his efforts contributed greatly to the success of the Alton Natural History Society during its formative and subsequent years. The Society planted a native juniper tree in Farringdon churchyard in memory of Neil. The tree was grown from a berry from one of the trees at Noar Hill, a place he often visited. Neil was also a Churchwarden at Farringdon. (ANHS) (PLAQUE BY TREE)

He served during the South African War from 1899-1900 with the Royal Lancaster Regiment, with whom he gained the award of the Distinguished Conduct Medal (London Gazette 19 April 1901) '...for gallantry at Spion Kop, in the absence of stretcher bearers did good work in carrying wounded out of action under hot fire.' He subsequently took part in the operations on Tugela Heights, where he was severely wounded. He received his commission in the Lancashire Fusiliers in May 1900, and was promoted LIEUTENANT in April 1901. In April 1905, he obtained a special promotion to the Hampshire Regiment, as CAPTAIN, and in June 1908 was transferred to the BLACK WATCH with the same rank. He served with the Egyptian Army from 1906 to 1908. CAPTAIN MACLEOD died in hospital at Bethune, where he was taken after action at Richebourg on 9th May 1915, suffering from shrapnel wounds. He had been wounded previously in France in November 1914. As well as the D.C.M. and Q.S.A. (for his Boer War Service), he was also awarded the 1911 Coronation Medal.* (DNW)

WORTHINGTON George of Farringdon born 8th October 1851 died 25th May 1872 aged 21 years (BR741) 'MURDER BY STABBING. – An inquest was held at the Plough Inn, Itchen Abbas, yesterday (Tuesday) before Mr. Spencer Clarke, county coroner, on the body of George Worthington, a young man of 20, who had been fatally stabbed on the previous Saturday, during a quarrel, by another man, or lad, of 16, named William Henry Whiting, who had been taken by Police constable Kellaway on the road from Tichborne to Bishop's Sutton, and had been committed to the county prison on the capital charge by Mr W. Benson, J.P. The first witness called before the jury, of which Major Aubert was foreman, was Henry Taylor, a man of Farringdon, working for Mr. Vokes, owner of threshing machines, who said he knew deceased, who had come to the Cart and Horses, at Kingsworthy, with Mr. Copland's horses to draw the threshing machine and straw elevator to Farringdon. It appeared that after leaving the above-named inn, where prisoner and deceased, with some other men, had been lurching, a quarrel arose between these two. Deceased struck Whiting with his hand, making his nose bleed, when Whiting drew his knife and stabbed deceased, who fell, and witness on going to him found that he was dead. The body was removed to the Plough Inn, Itchen Abbas, near which the fatal event took place, and Dr. Lipscomb, of Alresford was called in, who, on Monday, made a post mortem examination, and found a large gaping wound on the left chest. The instrument had entered the right ventricle of the heart, and the pericardium was full of black blood. ....went in search of Whiting, and found him on the road beyond Tichborne-down, covered in blood... Whiting was sober. ....The jury after a short consultation, returned a verdict of 'Wilful murder' against Whiting.' (HAMPSHIRE TELEGRAPH 1 JUNE 1872)

Simon died in 1726. Evidently Mary owned this land in 1749 – this was fortunate, for she received a substantial 'Award' when Farringdon Common was enclosed. The heir to the property; John HEATH....(Simon WINDEBANK's sister had an ILLEGITIMATE daughter, who it is said felt deep remorse, left the village and never married. John was her grandson). In 1757 the copyhold was transferred to him in the Manorial Court, with a stipulation that Mary WINDEBANK should be provided for, and following the usual practice John HEATH mortgaged her house and its grounds. She was in fact very comfortable; Gilbert's Cottage and The Haunt then formed a single dwelling (FB). Her grave inscription recounts the telling of her death when she was dragged from her four poster bed and brutally murdered and pictures the bed with money-bags underneath and the villain dragging her out with the devil watching: 'Murder Most Foul/ In Memory of Mary Windebanks/ It's not concealing the actions here/ Nor breaking justice without death or fear/ Shall shroud the guilty from the eye of God / Incline his balance or aver his rod/But blast the villain who here from justice fled / Who robbed me, killed me and insults me dead.'

BERRY Catherine (Nee FREEMAN) of Farringdon Villa died 24th November 1830 aged 77 years (BR196 HEADSTONE REMOVED) Catherine was the daughter of Elizabeth STRICKLAND and John FREEMAN Esq., (1722-94) of Chute Lodge Wiltshire. Her siblings included: Strickland (1754-1821, married Elizabeth STRICKLAND (believed his cousin) of Boynton, Yorkshire 1781). He wrote a book 'The Art of Horsemanship' in 1806. It's believed she also had a sister Charlotte (1758/61). At the age of 49, Catherine married Captain Charles Quintin BERRY, what confusing is that there are marriages recorded for them at Knaresborough 1798 and 'Lately, at Harrogate, Captain Charles Quintin Berry, of Bradshaw's Recruiting Corps, to Miss Freeman, of Chute Lodge, Wiltshire, with a fortune of 20,000' (HULL ADVERTISER 17 OCTOBER 1801) Her husband died in Paris, France and was buried there on the 5th October 1803 – at the time of his death, Charles Quinton Berry held the rank of Captain in his Majesty's Forty-seventh Regiment of Foot, and for some time previous to his quitting England for France, resided at Ealing, Middlesex. (LONDON COURIER & EVENING GAZETTE 20 DECEMBER 1809) On her death she bequeathed (for life) Farringdon Villa to Sophia BULKELY (1783-1867), WIDOW of CAPTAIN BULKELY - believed to be Sophia DAGLEY who married CAPTAIN Philip Richard BULKELY in 1803. They had a daughter, Sophia Catherine (1804-08). Philip (a CAPTAIN with the 61st Regiment of Foot was aide-de-camp to SIR John STUART) died in 1807 in Staffordshire aged 27 years. Sophia remained a WIDOW for the rest of her life and lived in Bristol from at least 1841 (visitors included artist George WOLFE from Chawton who married into the PROWTING family). Catherine bequeathed a lot of jewellery and money in her will and appears to have been very wealthy (she had been named in her brother's will as a beneficiary in 1822); some monies also went to REVEREND BENN and "the Asylum for deaf and dumb in London and the Indigent Blind". She wanted to be buried in "a plain simple manner". Her talented cousins (drawing/painting) Charlotte and Juliana Sabina STRICKLAND (daughters of SIR George STRICKLAND Bt. of Boynton, Yorkshire) were the executors of her will. *FARRINGDON – This quiet village would have suffered the bridal day of the future King of England to have passed off unheeded had it not been for the loyalty and kindly feeling of Mr. Thos. Christmas, brewer and maltster, of that place, who invited all the old labouring men and their wives to partake of a substantial dinner provided by Mrs. Christmas, who has on former occasions shown her kind-heartedness in a similar way; taking care to supply the ladies with their favourite beverage – bohea – in the evening. The men having enjoyed a bountiful supply of good old October, departed for their homes in high glee, not forgetting, of course, the cause of their joyous meeting. Six men, whose united ages was 473 years, enjoyed themselves like princes; and five of their wives accompanying them numbered 345 years – the men averaging 79 years, and the ladies 67. Such an ancient assemblage is seldom seen at one table. To the great delight of the party the host and hostess took each end of the table. The ringers gave them a merry peal during the day, who were also liberally regaled with genuine home-brewed. (HAMPSHIRE CHRONICLE 21 MARCH 1863)

He attended Prep school near Pangborne and then Malvern College. He excelled at music (learning the cello and piano). On leaving college he was called up for National Service joining the Hampshire Regiment and after initial training was sent out to Malaya where he spent the rest of his service. He became pianist to the Hampshire Regiment dance band while he was in Malaya. On leaving the service he joined Courage's Brewery in London, his father being manager of the Alton Brewery. He initially started training in the architects department. During this time he was secretary to one of the big London orchestras. Sometime later he moved to a small firm of architects in London, while studying for his exams. He specialised in house conversions and alterations. After some time he found intricate drawing was giving him problems with his eyes. He had various other jobs including running a restaurant in the south of Spain and became classical disc jockey to the English radio station, broadcasting along the South coast of Spain. In later years he moved into his brother's flat on the Isle of Wight where he spent many happy years serving as Church Warden in Seaview, running the choir and playing the organ. He was a great hit with the older retired residents looking after the drinks at their parties and doing small gardening jobs. He never married and lived with his little dog until he sadly died of cancer. (TC)

He couldn't wait to leave school; he just wanted to work on the land, a country boy, through and through. He volunteered to do his National Service, where he was a cook (a good one). After this he drove tractors (that's how he met his future wife Sheila rescuing her when she had broken down with a bike puncture). Frank married Sheila in 1959 in Four Marks. They had 2 children. He made the news when his lorry caught fire on the M27; fortunately he was unscathed except for a sooty face and a bit of a cough. He played cricket for Ropley (in the 1970s). Having a full-time job and occasionally bale carting in the summer paid for the annual family holiday to Butlin's. Frank was a very sociable person enjoying the company of his mates. happiest at home surrounded by his family, who with Olive were the most important thing in his life. Sid loved nature, the country side and gardens, making gardening his job and hobby. He was a very hardworking man and provided for his family through some very difficult times. The words most often heard when trying to describe Sid were kind hearted and family man. Olive taught her children and grandchildren to respect those more vulnerable than themselves and in indeed all others and their property. She taught her children to be honest, polite, kind, and generous and to appreciate what they had. She lived for her family as all genuine parents would. All that she did and all that she said was done with the intention to care, protect and get the best for her family. But as friends of the family can testify her caring ways didn't stop there. Olive could have reasonably been described as quite highly strung, she never relaxed, she never sat down, she rarely ever finished one of the many cups of tea she made in the day. She was a fighter. Not only for her children but also her husband Sid. She cared for him through ill-health on many occasions.

She made inquiries for her husband, and as a result obtained a certificate from Somerset House of his 'marriage' to Margaret Ella Wareham at Farringdon. Defendant: Was the reason of your going to Canada any fault of mine? Witness: No: we didn't just get along, and we thought if we had a separation for six months we might get on better. Margaret Ella Wareham, of Lower Farringdon, said she lived with the defendant. She went through a form of marriage with him at Farringdon Church in 1922, when she 21. Defendant described himself as a bachelor. Since that date they had been living together as man and wife, and there were three children, aged two, four, and six years. Supt. Bennett spoke to reading the warrant to the accused. He made no reply. Asked if he had anything to say, the defendant said: "In the eyes of the law I may be wrong, but from a human point of view I have never once regretted the step I took, and if I was placed in similar circumstances again I would do exactly the same again." He was committed for trial at the next Assizes, and released on bail.' (HAMPSHIRE TELEGRAPH 11 MAY 1928) William, an engineer's turner, was tried on the 16th June 1928 and found guilty. 'A.A. ROAD PATROL'S FATAL COLLISION - ...The inquiry was into the death of George Charlton, an A.A. road patrol, who was killed on the Meon Valley Road at East Tisted, near Alton. Charlton lived with his family at Farringdon, Alton..... P.C. Spearing stated that when he arrived on the scene with the ambulance Charlton was dead. (His two little boys, Gordon and Willie, aged five and seven, were taken to Alton Hospital with head and other injuries and detained. The third passenger in the car, Alfred Annette, an employee of the Hants County Council living at Newton Valence was also treated at hospital for arm and head injuries, but was not detained). There were marks on the road of the impact. Charlton's car was almost wrecked. Macdonald's car swerved to the offside after the collision, climbed a bank and crashed through a hedge, jumped a 3ft. 6ins. fence, and landed in a field right side up. After witnesses had been called the Coroner stated that both Macdonald and Clarke, a passenger, stated that Charlton's car drove into theirs. The jury had to consider the fact that Charlton had, within 1 ½ hours that night, drunk four pints of beer, although there was no suggestion that he was drunk; and added to that was the fact he was driving a 1925 model car, and he personally thought that if anyone was to blame it was Charlton. The jury returned with a verdict of 'Accidental Death'. (HAMPSHIRE TELEGRAPH 12 APRIL 1935) years (BR758 ASHES SCATTERED IN CHURCHYARD). Henry was the son of Charles and Harriet BAVAGE. He was a groom for the Kennedy's at Deanyers (Upper Farringdon House). He then went off with others from Farringdon and Chawton to Canada to work on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railroad Company and on his return married his 2nd cousin Susan (Susette – daughter of Anthony and Mary BAVAGE) in 1913. They had 6 children: Anthony Frederick Daniel (Bapt.1914, married Avis HICKMOTT), Harry Sidney Charles (1915-98), Mary Harriett (1920, married James Ernest (son of James TURNER) 1949), Hilda Margery (1921, married Walter (son of John Black FINDLEY) 1946), William Anthony (Bill) (1922, married Ivy WOODLAND) and Hilary Margaret aka Peggy (1928-2016). Henry served in France during the war in the ROYAL ARMY SERVICE CORPS and on his return became barman at The Royal Oak (the focus of most village activities). 'He used to ride his bicycle to Avenue Nurseries in Weston Common every day. He came home one day wet through and could not dry out. Within a week he was dead of pneumonia at the age of 45'. (PB) Susan raised their 6 children on her own, moving to Kathleen Place which had more room. She was a founding member of the Farringdon W.I. and was a member until the time of her death in 1955. Their son Harry is remembered for his cheerful good humour and kindness and the many things that he did for Farringdon over a period of more than 50 years following his return to the village after the War. The Churchyard was a special concern of his. He knew many of the people buried there and took pleasure in tending their graves. Harry left the village school aged 14, he was sent away to work at Brede near Hastings in the kitchens of a guest house and café where he was to learn to be a chef. Harry joined the Territorial Army before the War, serving in the Royal Artillery and was called up on the outbreak of war. Soldiering gave him a welcome break from the kitchen, which he did not enjoy. However the Army obviously discovered his training and transferred him to the Army Catering Corp, subsequently he was posted to India and took part in the campaign to liberate Burma. After the war Harry returned to the family determined to forsake the kitchen and work in the open air. He decided to learn to be a bricklayer and continued in the trade until retirement. He worked with a friend in the Petworth area travelling there daily by motorbike, until he acquired a van. This proved useful transporting Mary Shawe's choir boys and others on outings and to football matches, which Jeff King helped to organise. Harry enjoyed the local dances and whist drives and was for many years a Parish Councillor. With Bill Pink he helped to run a Thrift Club which made its distribution at Christmas. Harry inherited a love of horses from his father and was usually to be seen with Peggy and Bill at the local Point-to-Point.

'AN INQUEST was held at the Rose and Crown Inn, Farringdon, yesterday week...on the body of George Coombes, aged 65 years, who died suddenly on the previous Wednesday. It appeared from the evidence of Mr. Thomas Copland, farmer, of Farringdon that deceased was a maltster, and that about a quarter-past seven o'clock on the morning in question he found him sitting down on the bank of the main Gosport road. Witness called to him and said he would get cold sitting there, and as deceased did not get up witness went towards him. Deceased looked as if he was dying, and he groaned. Witness left two of his young men with deceased, and sent up word to his wife. John Clarke, landlord of the Rose and Crown and Henry Sims, the two persons referred to, said that they offered to take deceased to his daughter's house near the spot, and, as well as they could understand, the poor man answered, "Let me be." They helped him about four or five yards, when he dropped and died in their arms. They then carried his body on a hurdle to his daughter's house, and laid it on a sofa. About five minutes before deceased was lying down the men saw him ahead of them, when he walking very steadily along the road. Christy Pink, deceased's daughter, said that her father been in ill-health for some time past, but he did not complain of any pain....attributed death to heart disease, the Jury returned a verdict to that effect.' (HAMPSHIRE CHRONICLE 21 FEBRUARY 1885)

COURT ORDERS SALE OF COWS - 'This is rather an unusual case owing to the peculiar circumstances of defendant, and it has given the Society a great deal of trouble,' said Inspector Saunders, R.S.P.C.A., when Miss Sarah Moffit was summoned at Alton yesterday for causing unnecessary suffering to seven cows, three heifers, and a three calves between December 16 and 23. Miss Moffit sis not appear. Inspector Saunders stated that Miss Moffit and her sister had a smallholding in Brightstone Lane, Farringdon, and for a long time it had been her custom to appeal to neighbours for food to feed cattle. He found the animals all huddled together in a shed in an emaciated condition. They could not get at the food, which was in the shed – a handful of hay and about 12lb of feeding cake. When he fed them they ate ravenously. After being fed the animals improved and Miss Moffit sold the heifers and calves. G.S. Walker, veterinary surgeon, Alton, said his opinion was that Miss Moffit should not be allowed to keep cattle. difficulties began when they bought a car. Announcing the decision of the Bench, the Chairman said they were satisfied that the remaining cattle would be likely to suffer. 'Miss Mary Isabelle (Maribelle) Haddon of Cheltenham, was on Wednesday morning united in wedlock to Capt. John Curtis Burnett, of the Duke of Wellington's Regt., and Adjutant of the 5th East Yorks Regt. The ceremony, which took place at St. Paul's Church, aroused a lively interest amongst the parishoners, with whom the family of the bride are deservedly popular, for she is the daughter of one of Cheltonia's most prominent townsmen, Alderman John Haddon...who has also filled the positions of Mayor and Deputy-Mayor of this town... also a churchwarden, this connection lending an additional interest to the marriage of a member of his family ... The gentleman by whom our popular young townswoman was led to the altar is the son of Capt. Burnett, late of the Sherwood Foresters, but the wedding was not... a 'military wedding'. Nevertheless it was of a very charming and musical function, and was witnessed by several hundreds of eyes, chiefly feminine, all beaming benevolence on the happy couple.... Following closely in the steps of the surpliced procession came the bride, leaning on the right arm of her father, by whom she given away, and looked very stately and beautiful in a Princess gown of ivory satin charmeuse, with tunic overskirt in Limerick lace, the bodice tastefully trimmed with lace, etc. Her long French veil was surmounted with a coronet of myrtle blossom. (The bride's lovely bouquet was of white heather, orchids, and lilies of the valley, and on her train was a horse shoe with white heather..) Accompanying her were her little nephew and niece, Mr. Jack Carrington-Sellars and Miss Vere Carrington-Sellars, who looked very pretty in dainty white satin, the little lady carrying a crook trimmed with pink flowers. The bridesmaids were Miss Freda Sothan (cousin of the bride) and Miss Rene Carrington-Sellars (step-niece of the bride), who like their principal, wore Directoire gowns. The material in which these had been so daintily fabricated was soie de chine of a pale turquoise tint, the skirts prettily trimmed with satin and festooned with chenille. (They carried bouquets of pink roses (Catharine Mermet) and lilies of the valley, tied with a pale blue ribbon. (The brides mother / sister and mother-in-law's dresses are also described)... Acting in the ever-interesting capacity of best man was Mr. T. Ellis, who holds the rank of lieutenant in the bridegroom's regiment.... After the wedding service a reception was held at Clarefield, the residence of the bride's parents, and the wedding breakfast following at the Queen's Hotel, George's Ltd., Cheltenham's premier caterers supplying the handsome cake, which formed the pièce de résistance. Later in the day the newly wedded pair left Cheltenham for their honeymoon, which is to be spent in Paris and Belgium. Captain and Mrs Burnett's future address will be Hessle, Yorks. ....' (CHELTENHAM LOOKER ON (PHOTO) & CHELTENHAM CHRONICLE AND GLOUCESTERSHIRE GRAPHIC 24 OCTOBER 1908 (TEXT)

*BODY IN FROZEN WATER TROUGH – After he had been missing for three days, Algernon Albert Culham (48), gardener, of four Marks, Alton was found dead in a water trough in a field at Annetts Farm, Farringdon, on Friday. At an inquest on Monday,

Dorothy Iris Page, Farringdon, who had employed Culham, said she saw him last about 5.15 pm on February 27. On the previous Monday he had been in a forgetful mood. She was away from home the next day and was told he had spent the day standing in the greenhouse, doing nothing. He told her the next day he had committed several crimes and had been bad to his mother. She attributed his strange behaviour to shellshock, which he had in the 1914-18 war. He refused to see a doctor. Mr. W. B. Wright, Annetts Farm, Farringdon, said that on Friday a cattle trough was frozen over and Culham's body, face downwards protruded above the ice. Three bars across it left openings of 3ft. wide. The body was completely under the bars, and one bar had to be removed before the body could be taken out of the trough. Dr. H. 'COURT OF APPEAL DISMISS ROUTH FAMILY APPEAL – Appeals by members of the Routh family challenging development values of land at Church End, Tilehurst, assessed by the Lands Tribunal, were dismissed, with costs, by the Court of Appeal on Tuesday. The Tribunal fixed the value of 90 acres, formerly owned for many years, by the Routh family, at £10,020, but a valuer for the appellants had contended that the proper figure was £87,600. Lord Evershed (Master of the Rolls), ...said the Tribunal, who had accepted with minor modifications the assessment of the Central Land Board, and not gone wrong in law and the court could not interfere. Appellants were Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Alan Routh, of Knowle Lodge, Fair Oak, near Eastleigh, and Wing Commander Eric John Daubney Routh, of Titchfield Road, Fareham. Their land was requisitioned during the war and has now been developed as a housing estate by Reading Corporation. In their findings the Lands Tribunal said they were not without sympathy for the appellants. 'This is not a case of a speculator hungry for acres to develop at a profit....' they said, 'Recently beyond all doubt they have suffered misfortune. When war broke out nearly the whole of their estate was requisitioned and so it remained for some years after it had ended. Then the land was acquired for public purposes at a price derived from its development values at a time when, due to varied and adverse circumstances, that value was low.' The three appellants conducted their appeal in person....' (READING STANDARD 6 MAY 1960) (WEDDING PHOTO: DAILY MIRROR 21 SEPTEMBER 1932)

Joe attended Warminster Secondary School and it was during fifth form that he became interested in flying and joining the RAF. He was accepted by the Royal Air Force and told to report for attestation on 9th September 1924. He went to RAF Cadet College at Cramwell and started training as a Fitter (Aero Engine). From there he went to Halton where he bought his first transport an AJS motorbike. Joe's eightieth year was marked not only by a fine birthday party in his large garden among his many friends but by an hour-long flight in a Druine Petit Prince light aircraft owned by a friend. Despite poor visibility he took the controls for a significant part of the flight and his pilot later commented that his previous experience clearly showed in his handling of the aircraft. DUSSEK Eliza George Ann (Nee METCALFE) of Churchers, Farringdon born 1939 died 8th February 2017 age 77 years - Ann and Ian came to Farringdon 18 years ago. Ann was of good Yorkshire stock – she was descended from Henry V's head bowman at Agincourt (standing over 6ft, she could probably have managed to use a longbow). Ann was a magnificent cook. However, she chose to become a nurse, training at St. Thomas Hospital in London. (When she arrived in Farringdon, she was delighted to find a nest of St Thomas 'Nightingales' already here). Ann married Ian James (only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan J. Dussek of Kent) on the 7th September 1963 at Wyndham Abbey Church and for many years they lived in the Sevenoaks area. They had three children, but she continued to nurse, eventually taking charge of the Sevenoaks School Medical Centre. Following retirement, Ann and Ian decided to move outside the commuter belt and, after a three-year search, found Farringdon. This followed a very hectic time in which Ann supported Ian in two professional international presidencies and also acted as Mistress of one of the ancient guilds of the City of London. However, there was no rest and she threw herself into local activities and village life; a book group, opera study, Pilates, church cleaning and membership of the PCC, cooking for the Winchester Night Shelter, relearning to play the piano, supporting local and national theatre, being a grandmother, a wine appreciation group – the list was endless, but two interests stand out; her love of bridge, which she played with enormous enthusiasm and considerable skill and entertaining guests from near and far. 'Far' included both social and business visitors from every corner of the earth and also involved regular activities with the family vintage sports cars, in which she travelled to many European countries.

‘WRETCHED END.- ... held an inquest on Saturday, at the Alton Union Workhouse on the body of Hannah Hall, aged 72. Matthias Hall of Farringdon, husband of the deceased, said she had been ill for the last 12 months, and Dr. Wilson attended her. About three weeks ago he and his family went into the neighbourhood of Woking to pick peas for the London market, and the deceased, being very ill at the time and unable to walk, rode in a small cart, as they thought a little change of air might do her good, and that she might go to her sister’s, who lived in the neighbourhood. They were under a hut whilst there, and she had as much attention as they could give her, some person being always with her. Her sisters did all they could for her. They finished their work, and on Monday started for home, stopping for the night near Godalming by the side of the road, when he and deceased slept on the ground, and they pinned blankets up round the cart. It was her request that they left Woking to come home, for she said she was so very ill she should like to get back again. On the evening of the second day they got on to Elstead, six or seven miles from Godalming, where they slept in a barn. Deceased had eggs and oranges, and now and then a little porter or brandy. On the third day, July 24th, they had gone as far as East Worldham, when she was taken much worse, and he sent to Alton with information to Superintendent Cheyney. She had no medical attendance whilst they were away, and when he asked her if he should take her to a surgeon, she said “No”. She died in the cart after they left Worldham. He asked the landlord of the public-house there what he ought to do, and he said, “Take her to Alton” They had always lived this kind of life, travelling about. He took the body to the Alton workhouse – Abraham Hall, son of the deceased, a chimneysweep, said he was at Woking picking peas when his father and mother came to him. She was ill. She was there about three weeks, living and sleeping in what they called a camp, which consisted of blankets and sheets over some sticks. In summertime she had been in the habit of living this way for years.. Dr. Wilson, of Alton, said he had attended the deceased for seven months for chronic bronchitis. He had not objected (to going to Woking) for he knew she was not properly attended to at home and he thought possibly she might have more comforts than she could there. Looking at the age of deceased, and considering the chronic disease under which she was suffering, he considered death was accelerated by exposure. He would not have sanctioned her removal had he known she was not going to a comfortable home... A verdict in accordance with the above facts was returned. (WESTERN GAZETTE 2 AUGUST 1872)

Rivers, a farmer, residing at Farringdon, said he was with the deceased in a chalk pit, about a quarter to 12 o'clock on the 14th February. He and the deceased had tried to loosen a large piece of chalk and some earth from above but could not make it give way. Deceased went into pit again, and commenced to undermine it more, when a large portion fell upon him, knocked him down, covering his legs. There was not much earth on his body. Mr Rivers then got him out and sent him home in a cart that he was about to fill. He was quite sensible. On his way home Dr. Leslie saw deceased but said he could not interfere as he belonged to a club, but offered a seat in his carriage to anyone to go to Alton for Dr. Wilson..... father of deceased stated.... He came to his son, who was suffering very much, and he thought his ribs must be broken, as he was suffering great pain internally. He became easier before he died, and could be moved about, but he was rambling in his mind. He died Thursday night at 11 o'clock - Dr. Wilson saw him on the 15th.... (deputy Dr Curtis) attended deceased three or four hours after accident.... Found fracture of four ribs, with a rupture of the pleura.
